RESERVES - ACID/MESH PROBLEM - INFORMATION FOR GENERAL DISTRIBUTION

There is evidence to suggest that some reserve canopies have received masking treatment in order to pass the Bromocresol test. This masking may have occurred prior to an initial Bromocresol test or subsequently in order to pass at a second attempt.

There is no way of positively identifying all these canopies. At the moment, therefore, if any suspicion of masking exists then the canopy concerned should be grounded pending remedial action. It is anticipated that appropriate remedial action will shortly be approved by the B.P.A.

In order to assist in seeking out suspect canopies we have attached a list of canopies known to have failed a Bromocresol test. It must however, be realised that this list is not comprehensive.
